Jon Garside concentrates his practice on the defense of product liability, class action, commercial and employment-related lawsuits. In the area of product liability, he has successfully defended manufacturers of

- Pharmaceuticals
- Vaccines
- Medical devices
- Blood products
- Automobiles and trucks
- Industrial equipment
- Farm equipment
- Petroleum products
- Airplanes

Jon has also developed a reputation in the fast-developing area of class actions, defending and obtaining favorable results for, among others,

- an association of major health insurers
- a nationally known hospital
- a major manufacturer of generic medicines

In addition, Jon has handled a variety of commercial litigation matters, defending a health insurer against multimillion-dollar claims of fraud and obtaining a dismissal in favor of a large state employee retirement fund in a federal court contract case. Also, Jon frequently defends and counsels employers with respect to claims of discrimination, harassment, retaliation, wrongful termination, and other employment-related litigation.
