Fox Galvin LLC

Suzanne Galvin, a partner of Fox Galvin LLC in St. Louis, Missouri, has returned to the practice of law and DRI after a one-year sabbatical serving as a disaster relief chaplain. In her 25 years of legal practice, Ms. Galvin has represented a wide variety of clients, from doctors and hospitals in medical malpractice cases, to class actions involving pharmaceutical manufacturers and environmental litigation.

Her practice has focused in the “judicial hellholes” of St. Louis, as well as neighboring Madison and St. Clair Counties and the Southern District of Illinois. Ms. Galvin has also volunteered on behalf of numerous abused women and children in the city of St. Louis, giving a voice to those most often overlooked.

As she returns to the practice of law at the firm co-founded by her husband, John Galvin, she looks forward to serving clients with empathy and strength that she has found after seeing disasters worldwide, including serving women and children formerly held captive by ISIS in Iraq. Ms. Galvin is not only a litigator, but a mediator and arbitrator as well. She is licensed in state and federal courts in Missouri and Illinois.
